The official correspondence in the Greek question has just been laid before the British House of Commons. It is extremely voluminous. The Russian Envoy at Athens, scring in conjunction with the Court, planned the insurrection in the Turkish provinces, and from Athens directed its movement. An intercept eletter of Gen. Tsavellas, who had estensibly withdrawn from the King's service to take command of the insurgents, was addressed from Pera, April 25th, to M. Hentlan, King Othu's private secretary, asking for further assistance, and recommending that at least two battallions of the frontier guard, chosen from the first and eleventh regiments should be sent to Anino, where they were to have orders to desert forthwith and oft the incurrection, being also paid regularly, that they might remain firm and unshaken. The lonian deachment is described as being dispersed in several places, and divided under fourteen different leaders. It was even proposed to raise the whole military force of the country, and openly to declare war upon Turkey, but, of course, the occupation puts an ead to this project and dispels the delayer hope of a Greek empire of the Fast.

Accounts, without date, say that the insurrection which was subdued in Epizus, had acquired new strength in Theastly. Tehuni Kara Tassos had withdrawn to Mount Athes with a portion of his band. The Turkish troops sent against him to Ormilia, had returned to Salenies with four of his can neu.

TESTIMONIAL TO CAFT. INGRAHAM.

A subscription, amounting to about £00 sterling, collected chiefy in pence from the working classes, has been raised by the British admirers of Captain lugraham for the purchase of a gold chromometer, as a testimonial for his coaduct in the Kossta affair.

The chromometer has been taken charge of by Mr. Bechanan, and bears the inscription—
Presented to Captain lugraham of the United States Navy, by some thousandssof the British working classes, for his noble conduct in recounty Rossta, the Hungarian refugee, from the Austrian authorities, April, 1854. An address written on vellum, and enclosed in a frame of carved oak, accompanied the gift.

The address concludes as follows:—
In presenting to you this testimonial, we have a two-fold object in view; first, to do honor to a man of your bold and magnanimous character; second, that as your conduct has been stamped with approval by our trans-Atlantic brethren, we are most desirous of demonstrating to them, and to other States, that the same sense of justice and of right exists among the working classes of the British islands. Trusting that identity of spirit may have the effect of cementing a certial amity between the democrate of the Old and New World, we remain, sir, yours fraternally. [Here follow the signatures.]

Finale of the Slave Case in Milwaukle.

THE FUGITIVE SLAVE LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Mr. Sherman M. Booth, of Milwaukie, was arrested a few weeks ago in that city, on the charge of participating in the forcible rescue of an alleged fugitive slave. Mr. B. gave ball for his appearance to stand trial at the next term of the United States Court, and was suffered to go at large. Things remained thus, as we learn from the Milwaukie Sentinel, until Friday, May 26, when Mr. Booth's ball surrendeed him to the catedocal first the catedocal for the catedocal first states.

to stand trial at the next term of the United States Court, and twas suffered to go at large. Things remained thus, as we learn from the Allivaukie Sentinel, until Friday, May 26, when Mr. Booth's bail surrendered him to the custody of the Marshal. A writ of habeas corpus was immediately sued out before Hon. A. D. Smith, one of the Judges of the Supreme Court of the State, and United States Marshal Ableman made return thereto by producing the defendant, S. M. Booth. His counsel, Messrs. Paine and Watkins, moved for his discharge.

The opinion of Judge Smith, that Booth be discharged, is very long and elaborate. The chief points made are that the article in the constitution on which the law of 1850 for the reclamation of fugitive slaves rests, was merely a compact by the contracting parties to the constitution, by which the free States were to be bound to provide legislation, under due course of law, and after examination of facts, for the return of such persons, but that no power was conferred upon Congress to legislate upon the matter, and that it is the duty of the States to provide such legislation, is a proof that the matter remains in form of a compact. That it is clear that Congress cannot pass laws discharging fugitives from service. All such laws must be void. That the constitution contemplates an examination into the claimant of the fugitive, to be made where he is, by presumption, free, while the is also clear that the States cannot pass laws discharging fugitives from service. All such laws must be void. That the constitution contemplates an examination into the claimant of the fugitive, to be made where he is, by presumption, free, while the act of 1850 makes the decision or warrant of a Judge or Commissioner a judgment in fact, without trial or examination. That, in order to ascertain to whom "such service or labor is due," examination and inquiry must be made. If services or labor, is due, the fagitive must be given up; but the fact must be ascertained. The summary proceedings under this act of 18

the Russian connulates in Great Britain will be no longer recognized.

LORD ELGIN IN MONTREAL.—His Excellency the Governor-General arrives in town to-day, early in the afternoon. The government steamer Admiral arrived in port yesterday, to convey his Excellency to the capital, with a detachment of the 71st regiment as a guard of honor. A party of gentlemen go out by a special train at 10½ o'clock, A. M., to meet him at St. Hyacinthe. On his arrival at the wharf an address will be presented by the Mayor and Corporation. After his arrival in the city, we learn that addresses will be presented by the Council of the Board of Trade and the Corporation of McGill College 1 Donegana's Hotel. We heard yesterday some absurd apprehensions of unfavorable demonstration expressed. We are certain nothing of the kind will take place. The people of Montreal, who, like ourselves, disapprove of his lordship's policy and conduct, will receive Lord Elgin now, as they did on his return from Boston and from Bytown, certainly not with the cordiality they would extend to a favorite, but with the respect due to his high office.—
